at the Massachusetts General Hospital and the annual Harvard Medical School Department of Continuing such a law could prove vital in Muskingum County, which has averaged 10 opioid-related deaths a year since 2006, according to numbers tracked by the Zanesville-Muskingum County Health Department